FOREWORD

The class of '63 has now completed its first event in life's decathalon. Ahead lie even greater contests which we must meet if we are to become victorious. Behind us lie many achievements that we hope will be surpassed by those of the future. If this is to be, we can not allow ourselves to rest upon our previously won laurels.

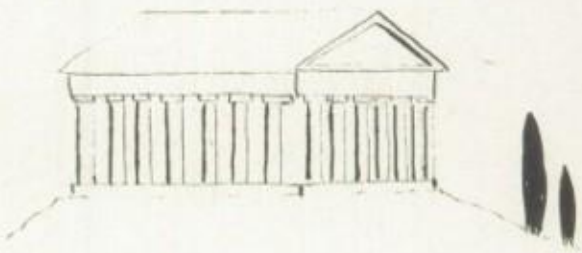
With the truth of Apollo and the wisdom of Minerva exemplifying our goals, we set forth anticipating success.

By Zeus's decree no lie comes there
No shadow to darken the word of truth.
—The Iliad

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. HELEN McNEIL

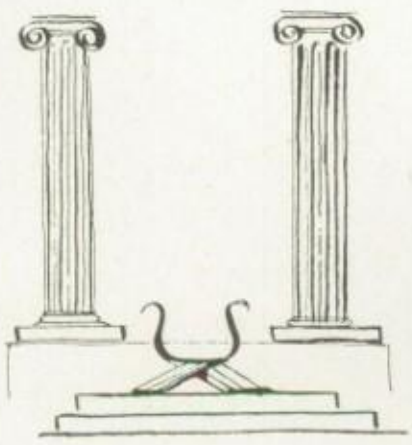
Well reported of for good works;
if she have brought up children,
if she have lodged strangers,
if she have washed saints' feet,
if she have relieved the afflicted,
if she have diligently followed every good work.
I Timothy 5:10 King James Version

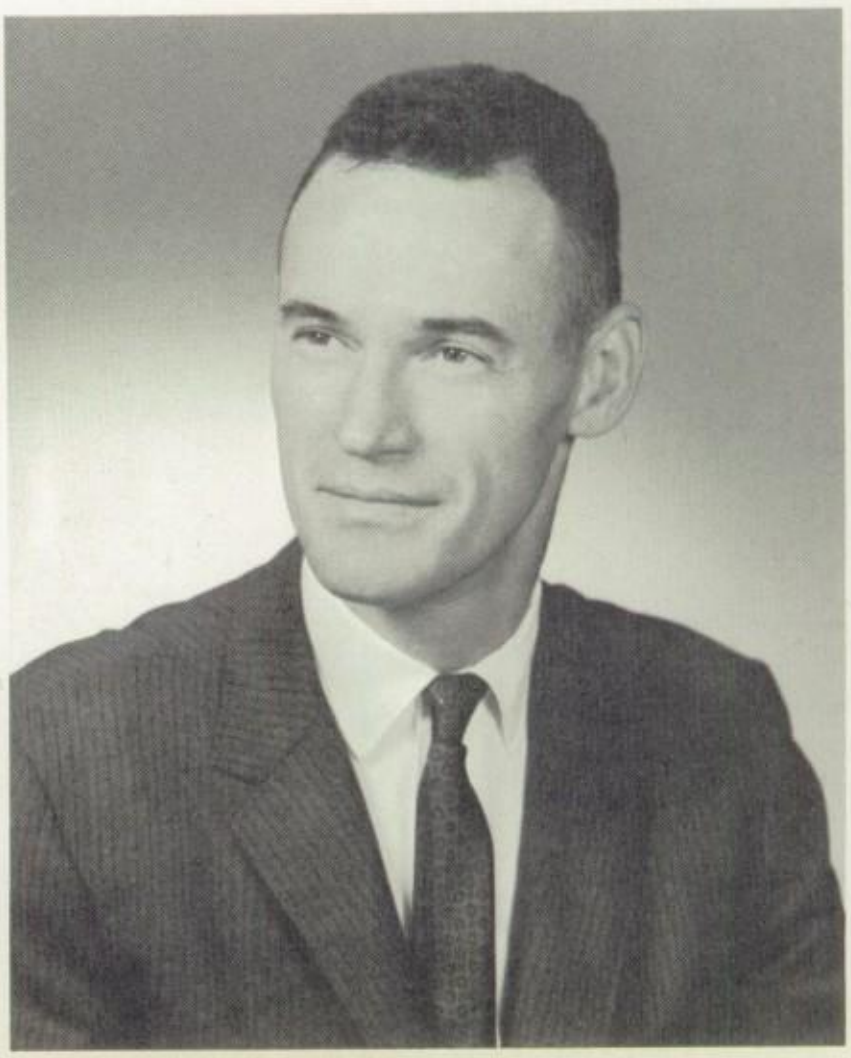


Dedication:
For your steadfast devotion,
For your understanding and helpfulness,
For your sincerity, inspiration, and patience,
And for your firmness and friendliness,
We, the Class of 1963, dedicate this yearbook
To you, Mr. H. Lewis McNeil.

From L. to R.: Mr. Kenneth Love, Mr. Robert Kell, Mr. Howard E. Ewell, Mrs. Mary McCleery, Mrs. Ann Dickinson, Mr. Donald Davis, Mr. Vernon Potter. Missing: Mr. Richard Ohler, Jr., Mr. Howard Naulty.

MRS. JOHN DICKINSON





To the Class of 1963:

I would like to take this opportunity to extend to you my heartiest congratulations for your success and accomplishments during your years in the East Aurora schools. Though I have not had the good fortune to be associated with you for more than a small portion of this time, I am well aware of your fine record and the high hopes that are confidently held for your future by the members of the administration and faculty.

East Aurora High School has a fine tradition for the training of excellent citizens. I am sure that you will contribute to a continuation of that tradition.

ADMINISTRATION

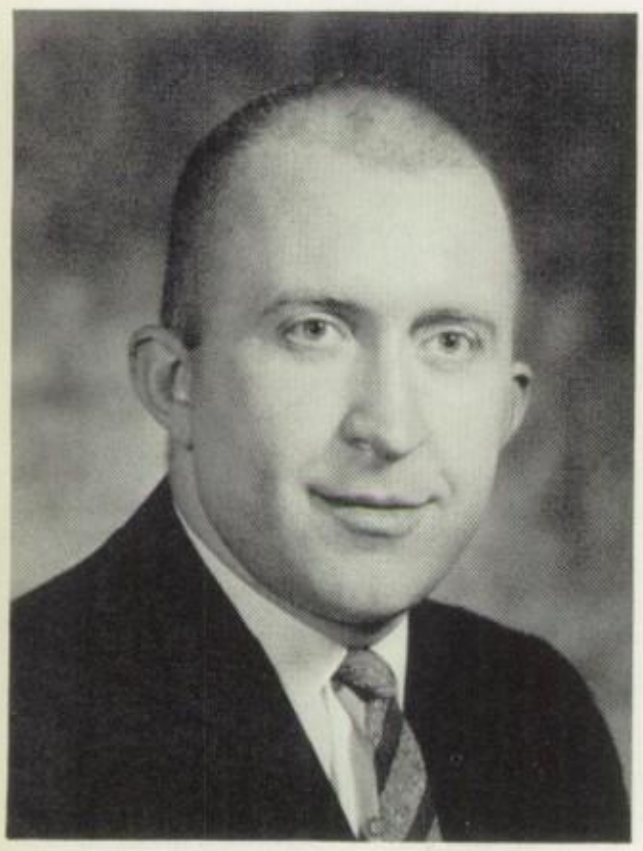
MR. ANTHONY LANCIONE

CURRICULUM COORDINATOR

The need for advancement toward higher goals in education becomes more apparent every day. Competition among people seeking employment or admission to college is more intense in spite of actual shortages in the labor market and increased college enrollment. One of the first things interviewers in both industry and colleges look for in prospective employees and students respectively is not only the educational background, but the desire on the applicant's part to continue to better himself. You men and women represent that type of person and I hope you will never lose your desire for more education.

Good luck and success to each of you.

A. Lancione



MR. R. BRUCE McPHERSON

SR. HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL

A man is measured by good works, not good intentions. Each of you, a member of the class of 1963, will be tested rigorously the rest of the days of your life to produce work that will preserve and improve your corner of the world. We have faith in you; we believe you will meet the challenge of living squarely, rationally and realistically.

R. Bruce McPherson

MR. LOUIS M. McNEIL

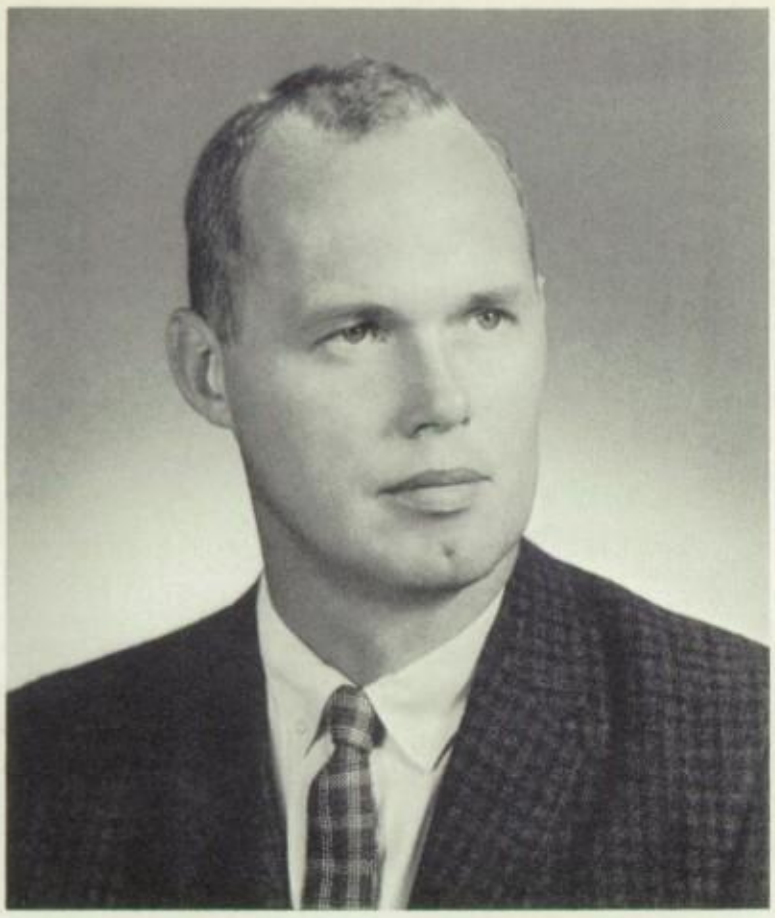
JR. HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL

It is with pleasure that I direct my remarks to the Class of 1963. I have watched many classes come and go over the years — not back to "ancient times," I assure you. Of the classes I have watched, you rank very high in my esteem.

Graduation is only a pausing place in your career. It is not the end nor the beginning — commencement. I can truthfully say that if you continue to do as well from here on as you have thus far, most of you will have a very fruitful life.

It is my sincere wish to each member of the Class of '63 for a successful and productive life. May you merit God's blessing.

H. Lewis McNeil



MR. DONALD L. LAWSON

DIRECTOR OF PUPIL PERSONNEL SERVICES

We, in America, have inherited rights and privileges which we must perpetuate and improve. This is a duty that must be fulfilled in gratitude for those that preceded us and for those that follow.

My sincerest wishes that you are as successful in your achievements of the future as your forefathers have been in the past.

CLASS OF 1963 ADVISORS AND EXECUTIVE BOARD

Seated, L. to R.: Betsy Cooke, Diane Duch, Sandra Matchulat, Kathy Shed, Joan Dorsey.
Standing: Robert Flygare, Ted Weigold, Mike Milliron, Rix Jennings.

CLASS

The class of 1963 has arrived at the end of its first marathon in education. Soon we will be presented with the torch of higher learning which we must consistently strive to carry proudly. But first, let us pause to review our past experiences and accomplishments in the marathon.

Our beginning, grade school, was marked by many outstanding and memorable events in the race towards higher education. We were introduced to the wonderful world of literature premiered by Dick, Jane, and Spot. Then the race diverged into three parallel paths, when the two new elementary schools where completed. Still, these paths, though sometimes rugged and uphill, were filled with such exciting occasions as field trips, parties, and yearly plays. We will all remember the bus rides on cold winter mornings in order to go swimming in the new Main Street pool, only to have our hair freeze on the way back. Thus we reached the first turn on the road to our Athens, higher education. On Moving-up Day, we were given a glint of the hilly path that would lead us through high school.

In September 1957, our paths converged as we entered the seventh grade, the first marker of our approach to the top. Burdened at first by seemingly unsurmountable homework, we soon adjusted to this different system of learning. With Judd Hulbert as our first class president, we held a class dance and swimming party.

Our pace was increased in eighth grade with Steve Middlebrook as president. We battled with transitive and intransitive verbs, elementary algebra, and the memorization of the Gettysburg Address. We survived these temporary weather hazards and continued along the road to Athens.

With the acceptance of our title of "freshmen" came a feeling of pride and importance. We surged forward encouraged by our new executive board consisting of Tim Burke, President; Marj Miller, Vice President; Tom Hoag, Secretary, and John Cline, Treasurer. Our pack of learning seemed to be lightened for a while when we presented our first annual open dance, "The Spring Shuffle". Yet our packs were heavy and the runners who carried their burdens exceptionally well were inducted into the Junior National Honor Society for their scholastic excellence.

When we entered our sophomore year, the path seemed long and unending. Biology presented a new and intriguing look at the functions of life: the girls were squeamish at frog dissection; the boys hesitant before Mr. Lawson to give blood samples. Mr. McPherson, our new English teacher, organized the Soph Review, a literary magazine composed by our class, which encouraged us towards Athens by means of self-expression. Several of the runners took refreshing side paths by participating in the Variety Show, musical programs, sports, and Cheerleading. We were continuously encouraged by our executive board officers: Vic Leitzke, President; Tom Hoag, Vice President; Lisa Selkirk, Secretary; and Betsy Cooke, Treasurer.

HISTORY

On the arrival of our junior year, the tension mounted as our goal became closer. Several refreshing sidepaths refreshed our arduous highway at the Sadie Hawkins Dance. Sunny Stewart and Tim Burke were crowned "Daisy Mae" and "Li'l Abner." In February, the "Sweetheart Swing" was reigned over by Louise Winslow and Mike Carman. The last social activity of the year was the Junior-Senior Prom, "Stardust", which was followed by a post-prom party. Walt Lee and Barb Petre were crowned King and Queen. In March, our class staged "A Murder has been Arranged," under the direction of Miss Harp. Selling Christmas cards was our money-making project for the years. We were encouraged to move ahead on our path of learning by Mike Milliron, President; Betsy Cooke, Vice President; Kathy Shed, Secretary; and Sandy Matchulat, Treasurer.

Entering our senior year, Athens was in sight just over the next hill. The final leg of the run was shared by seven exchange students: Brigitte Grolms and Axel Herold from West Germany; Silvia Rodriguez from Argentina; Kunio Uchikawa from Japan; Abdelkrim Sordo; and Tedla Gebre Mikael and Johannes Berhann from Ethiopia. Lisa Selkirk spent her senior year in Annecy, France. Because of the prodigious encouragement evince by our executive board, we retained it for another year. Our advisors, Mrs. Thomason and Mr. Drescher, encouraged us in our fund raising projects which included magazine and food sales at the football games. Thanks to the patience of Mr. McPherson, our class maintained a Senior Room for relaxation and study.

The Class of 1963 had completed its marathon. We have reached our Athens bearing news of victory. We looked back reverently on our years at East Aurora. The marathon suddenly seems not as difficult, as exasperating, as insurmountable. We look to the future. Before us lies another marathon towards another Athens. Wisely we gather all our previously acquired knowledge and proceed somewhat slower possibly, but more sure-footed to our next Athens.

The Auroran Staff

The 1963 Auroran was begun in the spring of 1962. Gradually it grew during the summer months. The trial dummy underwent many advantageous changes as new ideas and better lay-outs became more prominent. In the fall of 1963, the editors were chosen. Thus, the final stages of production progressed. The staff worked diligently in seeking to find new and better ways of production. The staff was co-ordinated by Mr. Nisita, without whose help this book would not have been possible.

The staff of the 1963 Auroran wishes to extend thanks for the co-operation of the following:

MR. ANTHONY BARRESI

SENIOR CHOIR

The Senior Chorus of 1962-63 is one of the most proficient groups in recent years. Numbering about one hundred, this organization has performed many difficult works, ranging from the contemporary composer Vaughn Williams to the classic Brahms.

In the fall of this school year, the chorus released a recording called Choral Concert. Its success in the community has encouraged the chorus to contemplate the making of another recording at a future time.
